NEW JERSEY DIGITAL READINESS LEARNING & ASSESSMENT BROADBAND COMPONENT, WIDE AREA NETWORK & INTERNET COOPERATIVE PURCHASING INITIATIVE RFP EVALUATIONS

The Middlesex Regional Educational Services Commission (MRESC), serving as lead agency for this initiative, conducted an RFP using the competitive contracting process with prior approval from the Division of Local Government Services. The MRESC received 13 responses to this RFP of which 12 were deemed responsive and 1 was deemed nonresponsive. The MRESC evaluated the responses for legal and technical compliance using an evaluation committee and the consulting services of Dellicker Strategies, LLC. The MRESC Business Administrator did not score the responses, as his role was to ensure strict compliance with the competitive contracting statutes. Dellicker Strategies did not score the responses either, but provided technical analysis of the proposals for the benefit of the evaluation committee.

The evaluation committee held two days of oral presentations and a third day for committee discussion to score the responses. Dellicker Strategies provided evaluation of the price offerings and served as liaison to the respondents to provide clarifications to any questions raised during the evaluation process.

At the conclusion of the evaluation meeting, committee members turned in their scores over the next week. Once all scores were received, the MRESC Business Administrator, serving as the issuing officer, collated the scores and consulted with Dellicker Strategies on any remaining issues that might affect the award.

The following is a brief review of the responses and the recommendations of the evaluation committee.

1. Affiniti:

Composite Scores: Categories B & D- 58.75 C- 45.29

Affiniti had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in categories B, D, C, E and F. Their proposal included the creation of regional networks using “point to cloud” designs with significant network management services and functionality, delivering Internet directly to each school per their specifications. Network links would be secured by partnering with other service providers and installing wireless technology when fiber was not available or its installation would severely delay the project. Affiniti provided pricing for base proposals only and committed to a flexible partnership when it came to design and installation. Affiniti has extensive experience in other states and would be new to New Jersey.

2. Cablevision Lightpath NJ LLC:

Composite Scores: Categories B & D- 68.25 C- 44.29

Lightpath had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in categories B, C, D, E & F. Their proposal referenced their extensive fiber network within the tri-state area and their willingness to expand that network for new and existing schools. Lightpath currently serves many of the districts referenced in the RFP with point-to-point cloud based services using their own network or partnering with other service providers. Lightpath is able to distribute Internet access directly to school hub-site locations without the need for an educational service agency to host core networking equipment, which was a distinct advantage in their proposal.

3. Cogent Communications:

Composite Scores: Category C- 45

Cogent had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in Category C. Their proposal referenced their extensive fiber network and their ability to provide ISP services, but they only responded to Category C in certain regions, which limited their applicability to the broader project. When the committee selected regional network providers that bypassed the need for centralized hub-site locations for the delivery of Internet access, Cogent's proposed solution became less relevant as a viable solution.

4. Comcast Business Communications LLC:

Composite Scores: Category A-82.88 B & D- 79.5 C- 58.71

Comcast had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in all categories A, B, C, D, E and F. Their proposal referenced a number of different solutions for the provision of services across the service categories, including the ability to deliver Internet access directly to schools without the need for distribution hub-sites. Comcast currently serves many of the districts named in this RFP in the northeast, central and southern regions. Comcast will provide services using its own fiber network throughout the service territory.

5. Data Network Solutions (DNS):

Composite Scores: Category A-77.88 B & D- 64 C- 37.29

DNS had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in categories A, B, C, D, E and F. Their proposal referenced a number of different solutions including fiber and wireless for the provision of services across the service categories. DNS currently serves a number of districts named in this RFP. The review committee was not comfortable with a ubiquitous wireless solution without knowing how many districts would receive wireless service.

6. ENA (Education Networks of America):

Composite Scores: Category B & D- 59.63 C- 51.71

ENA had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in categories B, C, D, E and F. Their proposal was for a fully managed layer 3 solution in the northeast, central and southern regions with significant network management capabilities. ENA uses 100% leased circuits and have extensive experience in other states but is limited in New Jersey. The review committee was not completely confident that ENA could provide the level of service required within the stated timelines. ENA's composite scores were affected by their proposed costs, which were not the lowest-priced in any region.

7. Fibertech Networks:

Composite Scores: Category B & D- 68.88

Fibertech had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in categories B, D and E. Their proposal was for a fully managed layer 2 solution in the northeast, central and southern regions to select school locations. Fibertech uses a private fiber solution and can provide internet through a network hub-site to school locations. The review committee was comfortable with the private fiber solution, but was not confident that Fibertech could provide the level of service required within the stated timelines. The most important limiting factor with Fibertech's solution was their inability to provide complete solutions serving all the schools in any region.

8. Lightower Fiber Networks:

Composite Scores: Category C- 44.29 D- 44.29

Lightower had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide service in categories C, D and F. Their proposal was for a cloud-based Ethernet point-to-point solution using layer 2 technology to select school locations in the northeast and central regions. The review committee was comfortable with the cloud-based Ethernet solution, but was not confident that Lightower could provide the level of service required within the stated timelines. Moreover, they did not respond to category B, the regional wide area network part of the request.

9. NexGen Networks:

Composite Scores: Category B & D- 42.38 C- 35

NexGen had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide services in categories B, C & D. Their proposal was for a fully managed layer 2 solution using 100% leased circuits. NexGen has a limited footprint in New Jersey. The review committee was comfortable with the fully managed layer 2 solution, but was not comfortable that NexGen ability to deliver on what was proposed due to significant gaps in their proposal response.

10. PenTeleData:

Composite Scores: Category A- 76.75 C- 46

PenTeleData had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide service in categories A, C & D. Their proposal was for cable modems in category A and fiber Ether point-to-point solutions within their own service area in category C. PenTeleData has a limited footprint in New Jersey and the review committee was not confident that PenTeleData could provide a level of coverage required to serve multiple schools across district boundaries where important.

11. Sunesys:

Composite Scores: Category A- 51.88 B & D- 53.38 C- 54.14

Sunesys had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide service in categories A, B, C, D, and E. Sunesys proposed providing services over its own fiber network while using a fully managed layer 2 solution in categories B, D & C. Sunesys also proposed a hub and spoke design to deliver internet and WAN services. The review committee was comfortable with this proposal, but was concerned about the one size fits all approach. Sunesys did not respond to base proposals, but proposed its own alternates that did not necessarily match the requested terms or service parameters.

12. Xtel Communications, Inc.:

Composite Scores: Category C- 45 D-45

Xtel had no material flaws in their response and demonstrated the technical ability to provide service in categories C and D. However, they were not scored on B because they did not respond to that category. XTEL proposed Internet service directly to schools without regional network access, which was acceptable but not desired. Ultimately, the evaluation committee had other options from providers that provided regional network services as expressly sought in the request for proposals. For category C, Xtel proposed a fully managed layer 2 solution for certain sites.

13. Verizon

Composite Scores: All Categories 0

Verizon's RFP was deemed non-responsive as they did not follow the guidance within the RFP document. Instead of responding to the specific items request in the MRESC RFP, Verizon submitted the rates, terms and conditions contained in the State of New Jersey Data Communications Network Services Contract. The company also took blanket exception to the terms and conditions of the RFP and did not identify which schools it could service. Moreover, Verizon stated that extra construction charges could apply to any or all sites, effectively rendering their pricing presentations incomplete and unworkable for selection purposes.

Conclusion: Twelve respondents were determined to have both the ability to provide various levels of service as outlined in their responses and were deemed responsive and compliant. The final recommendations are based what we believe provides the highest level of service at the best price.

Although the RFP sought services for a statewide network (category E), MRESC is not making an award for those services at this time. We need to conduct a further review of our options now that we know the selected providers for the other categories of service.

Also, Category F includes those members of the MRESC Cooperative that did not specifically request services per the RFP. They were included in the proposal so they could change their minds. Awards to Category F were made to the service providers who won the respective regions for Category B/D, since potential Category F schools will be serviced in the same regional networks.

I want to thank the review committee and Dellicker Strategies for their hard work and commitment to this project as it was a Herculean task that will save taxpayers millions of dollars over the next five years.

Recommendations: Based on the evaluations, it is recommended that awards be made to Affiniti, Comcast, Data Network Solutions, Lightpath, PennTelData, Sunesys and Xtel as attached.
